The Chief Conservator of Forests has also raised certain doubts about the correct interpretation of the Government Order dated 9th April 1941 regarding the payment of bonus in respect of sandal trees standing on lands granted for agricultural purposes.

The Revenue Commissioner who was consulted in the matter, while agreeing with the modifications proposed by the Chief Conservator of Forests to the rule relating to the disposal of lands containing sandal trees, states that the question of recovery of bonus does not seem to arise at all as the system of recovery of malki and payment of sandal bonus was abolished in pursuance of Chief Conservator of Forest's suggestion on the ground that it is defective and that the existing penalties for damage to sandal trees are quite ample for their safe preservation, and requests that the Government Order may however be clarified.

Government, after examining all aspects of the case, are pleased to approve of the modifications to the said rule (viz., Rule 43 of Land Revenue Rules under the Mysore Land Revenue Code) proposed by the Chief Conservator of Forests and agreed to by the Revenue Commissioner and direct that the Land Revenue Rules be amended accordingly.

Government in clarification of the Government Order dated 9th April 1941 referred to above, further direct (i) that there will be no recovery of malki or payment of bonus in cases of sandal trees on lands granted for cultivation after the issue of the said Government Order and (ii) that bonus will be paid at the reduced rate indicated in the Government Order in respect of sandal trees on lands in private holding on the date of the issue of the said Government Order provided that no such bonus shall be paid to those who had definitely waived their claim for it in consideration of the non-recovery of malki at the time the lands were granted to them.
